

April Seeds of Kindness

{ a Women's Ministries Program }

Spring is in full swing and it is time to plant seeds! And flowers! And... Well, you get the point! Nothing yells 'hurrah' more loudly than flowers popping up all over the place after a long winters nap! Of course, seed planting takes thought, care, preparation, patience, and work.

How true those same principals are for relationships too! Planting kindness (not 'acting' or 'showing' but a genuine 'putting kindness in to' another person requires thoughtful and continuous and faithful effort.

Then decorate a card for that person. On the inside of the card write "This card is good for..." and think of something to do for or with that person in the near future. Think of things that will bring women together with cords of kindness. |

Ideas for cards:

- A pot of tea, scones, and good company
- A walk in the park
- Help around the house
- Letter writing
- A movie and popcorn
- A hand massage
- Babysitting
- A batch of homemade cookies

Deliver the plant and card, then follow up with a phone call or email setting up a date for the item in the card. Consider starting a Heart Call ministry in your church.

Cords of Human Kindness

Read through the scripture verse (Hosea 11:1-4) . What a beautiful passage! You can feel the anguish and concern that God is voicing. God, our creator, someone who could force, destroy, change anything He wants is expressing Himself in very human terms much as a parent would do. "I loved him, I called him my son, I taught Ephraim to walk taking him by the arms...I was like one who lifts a little child to the cheek, and I bent down to feed him". How heartbreakingly beautiful this passage is. You can clearly visualize a parent agonizing over the unwise choices of a child.

In verse 4 there is an interesting phrase: "I led them with the cords of human kindness, with ties of love". This portrays kindness and love as things that connect and facilitate drawing in. The whole passage reflects gentleness, a tender reaching out to a wayward child.

We know well the story of the Israelites, and if we continue the parent-child analogy in human terms, gently hugging and tenderly loving them is not what many of us would do! A good spanking seems in order here, along with a long lecture! And yet God knows what is needed, what will help the wayward child to respond in a positive way. And what kindness He shows! It isn't the superficial kindness - something done because it is the right thing to do. It goes deep - a genuine kindness and desire for well-being for the individual.

Cords of Human Kindness. What a beautiful phrase. If God is continually kind and patient - shouldn't we emulate His character? Won't kindness accomplish the same things for us that God desires for mankind? And, if we wish to draw people in with kindness shouldn't we be kind at all times, not just during a planned activity?

Let's pray for the type of kindness and love that God shows to each of us, and the ability to share that kindness with others.
